by the end of January. This year, the majority of the oporetta rehearsals, would have had to be fitted in between now and the Easter holidays. Regret was felt at the decision but most people realise that although regrettable, it was necessary.

BADMINTON by S. Stewart

The under 19 Badminton club has now recommenced. All members are asked to note that this is held on a different evening. It is now on a Tuesday, after 4.00pm. Members are also asked if they intend to come, would they please give their names to a member of the committee before 4.00pm. on the Monday before so that games can be arranged.

down the b nnieters, galloping up the wrong stairs and stopping in front of a crowd. Thirty minutes later one of our reporters and a friend had to manoeuvre their way through a labyrinth of legs beside the girls cloakroom.

Too many of you think these things may seem to be a joke. Just how funny would it be if there was a fire.

SAFETY IN ST. MICHAEL'S by Shirley Stewart

Last ednesday saw the downfall of the girl captain. The time was 12.55, the place "B" staircase. After checking that she had indeed been coming down a "down" stair, the girls who had pushed her rushed to find out what had happened. Miss Mc Grath struggled to her feet with the sound of cracking bones and the hurling of insults.

She could not, however, find it in her to blame her innocent-looking companions and instead turned her wrath on to the rather narrow stairs.

Fortunately, the outcome was no more serious than a skint elbow and knee (now on view in the sixth year girls room), but it could have been much worse.

This incident led to 2 MART reporters making a short tour of inspection around the school. In only 5 minutes they found fire-doors propped open and the switch on a wall socket down. Owing to the lack of lighting in a dim part of a corridor and the remains of a bag of criaps, one of the reporters fell up the stairs.

The bell for the change of period rang and our intrepid pair were drawn apart as bodies dived past them from every direction. They met again at the tragic "B" staircase and witnessed a great deal of pushing, pulling, sliding

NEWS FROM OUR BALLET REPORTER

On Tuesday, 21st January a group of girls, from both the junior and senoir school went with Miss Callaghan and Miss Dempsey to see a dancing display in Ravenspark Academy.

A short and uneventful journey was followed by a very pleasant show. There were six dancers and their musician and they were mainly showing us examples of rythm and movement. It was an extremely good show and everyone enjoyed it very much.

On the way back the seniors had to assert their authority over some upstarts who had tried to steal the back seats, and they were, as usual, the victors.

We would all like to thank both of the teachers for their time in organising the outing.

CAPITALISER

As you will remember, a team of senior pupils are involved in the Capitalisre game where the team speculates in the Stock Market. At the beginning of the game each school was "given" £20,000 and after four months, ST. Mike's has made a profit of £4,000.

Some of the team, however are getting carried away. Jim Mc Court almost believes that the money is real. At the moment the team are lying tight and they are confident that they have a good chance of catching the leaders.

TUCK-SHOP

The tuck-shop was reopened on Monday 12th, after eight weeks of closure. Just think, for eight weeks nearly every pupil has passed the door while stacks of grub lay doomed to rot!

However, the poor underpaid teachers decided to go back. That means, the poor underpaid tuck-shop labourers have returned to sell their wares!!

Three cheers for the teachers!

Luckily most of the food stayed edible and was sold cheaply. However, the stuff that was slightly off was scoffed by the sixth-year boys!

Well done, you scadgers!!!

CLAPTOMANIA by J.DONALD

He took Heroin. He now wears faded denims and "ERIC CLAPTOMANIAC" tee-shirts. He smashes up his hotel rooms. He uses Persian rugs as toilets. He has twice been voted The Worlds Best Dressed Man. These are just a few "talents" bestowed on the world's most unpredictable, eccentric, yet undoubtably top, guitarist. Apart from, at times, sharing the same name as God he has a following nearly touching on the immense magnitude of his namesake. As you can see Eric is held in high esteem and you would think he has an original idolic image but more often than not he hasn't. His Public Relations Officers put about the image of a husky, drunken star unleashing on helpless hotel rooms pent up emotions as a direct result of strenuous concerts and tours. This in fact contradicts Eric's real nature of a conservative English man striving for a quiet unglamorous life enjoying his favourite pastime playing the guitar. His wish cannot, of course, be granted as he has an unbeleivable talent for playing Rythm'n Blues and is, whether he deep down may not want to, destined to be immortalised as the greatest guitarist the world has yet seen.

The ex-Cream guitarist has a modest yet powerful body - notably in his arms and fingers which bare all the scars of a great, great musician. He has a slim lean face which has all the happiness and characterist appeal on it as that of a father looking on his first new born son for the first time. His forehead and eye-lids have lines arising from the unending orgasm which he experiences night after night as a result of squeezing every bit of blues out of his characteristic Gibson guitar. "Old Slowhand" has short black hair with a middle parting which he combs behind his ears showing of his side boards and short stubby growth around his chin.

When you look at it he has a fairly average body but he does possess quite an original personality. It is reminiscent of a mischevous school boy always doing something new and bad to be the centre of attraction. He has tried everything from heroin to Budweiser, 150 guinea suits to second hand washed out Levis and world renowned beauty queens to the enevetiable, notorious "roadies". Although he claims to prefer the latter i in each case, at heart Eric is a typically conservative Englishman and really prefers the former example.

Eric just could not keep up this superstar image and since 1970 he has been hooked on Heroin but this he gave up via acupuncture and is making a comeback which has restored him to No 1 in the world without his P.R.O. putting up a false image. He has made his comeback himself doing his legendary own thing - standing on stage, stoned out of his mind and standing immobile. This time Eric has received part of his wish - doing his own thing but, hating the evil clutches of the pop world and although his wish is not to revert to his old image, he possibly will.

"Who do you do"? By Father BOYD.

Who do you do? That's not only the name of a very recent and popular T.V. programme, but it's also a question all of us must ask ourselves occasionally. Freddie Starr, Mike Yarwood and co. do lots of impersonations. And this is made possible by having developed the particular talents God has given them. Their success and popularity is due mainly to years of hard work and perseverance.

But who do YOU do? Perhaps like so many people, the only people we really "do" are our parents, brothers and sisters, our friends both in and outside school, the bus conductor, shopkeepers, employers etc. But this has a certain inevitability about it - namely unpopularity and failure.

By far the most difficult, but at the same time the most profitable impersonation of all to do, is to try and impersonate Christ: and although it is hard and very difficult - it is not impossible! This too takes years of practise, hard work and perseverance. To think like Christ, to speak like Christ, to act like Christ isn't something that happens overnight, but usually takes a lifetime.

So don't give up at the first failure - but if at first you don't succeed, then TRY, TRY AGAIN. Then and only then shall each of us experience success allied to popularity with the help of others instead of at their expense.

EXCHANGE AND SMART By Martin McAllister

Today a new feature starts in this newspaper which is hoped will evoke an enthusiastic response from all our readers. EXCHANGE AND SMART should have = something for everybody, whether they have money to spare or are wanting to raise some cash. Smart has truly entered the commercial world and is offering advertising space for anyone wishing to sell records or music cassettes. On payment of 2P, these items are advertised for two weeks, along with the price they're expected to realise. Prospective buyers need only contact me and, on being given the fee of 2P, I will put them in contact with the seller. Astute financiers will have realised that Smart makes a profit of 4P from each transaction but we consider that the worthwhile service provided fully justifies such a profit, especially when it is remembered that all profits go to the Missions. Smart regrets that it is unable to advertise goods before payment is made and that, even though the goods are advertised for two weeks, sales cannot be guaranteed. If the service proves popular, it may be extended to other goods such as books.

OPARETTA by M. Mc Allister

It came as no surprise when it was learned last week that "Fiddler on the Roof" has been cancelled. The blame for the cancellation does not lie with the repatrure of Mr. Mc Farlane. It was cancelled because the production team rightly felt that the shortage of time would lead to an inferior performance being produced. In past years the oparetta rehearsals have been well under way

The other week while talking with some friends, someone happened to say in the course of our conversation "Did you see Sale of the Century last week? A few replied yes, but quite unwittingly, I was the one who said no, explaining that I am not in the position to have any interest in that kind of shopping.

My friends, seeing that I had misunderstood were rather amused. Obviously, I had misinterpreted the meaning of the question, so I felt a bit of a fool. Eventually I learnt that "Sale of the Century" is a TV programme in which participants could win money and purchase goods at greatly reduced prices. Sales capture most peoples imaginations: WHY? Because they often make possible what was previously impossible, and people aren't slow to take advantage of new cloths etc.

Then I began to think just how much this had in common with our religion, surely anyone who reflects on the Life, Death, and Resurrection of Jesus must conclude that his passion and death ranks as "THE Sale of the Century", this one more than any other, especially when we consider what is at stake. The call here is not to save money, but a call to save yourself. His life makes possible what was previously impossible: He has paid the price of our salvation. Now all that is asked is to obey his word and follow his example.

Here we are not refering to such trivialities as the clothes we wear, but as St Paul so rightly says, it is a question of "Putting on Christ", the assurance of present happiness and eventual salvation. Christ came so that we might have life, and have it more abundantly. Does this 'Sale' excite your imagination? Does what Christ offer attract you?

Misinterpreting the Sale of the Century wasn't so bad, as I only caused amusement. But misunderstanding and failing to take advantage of "The sale of a lifetime", is sad, tragic and fatal. It is damning both for ourselves and for others.

LATIN SPEAKING COMPETITION

Last Saturday morning, at the unearthly hour of 8.30, pupils started making their way to Glasgow to compete against other West of Scotland schools in speaking Latin.

The second years acted a scene from "Circus Mirabilis". Natives who watch this Roman TV programme call it "The Magic Roundabout".

Intellectuals from later years spoke some of the immortal words of Roman Authers. A request will appear in the next issue.

ANTI-ABORTION RALLY by M. BALLANTYNE

On Monday evening of a fortnight ago (10th. Feb.) a party of 50 senior pupils accompanied by Miss Dorrian went by coach to The Palace Theatre, Kilmarnock to attend the Anti-Abortion Rally organised by S.P.U.C. (The Society For The Protection Of The Unborn Child). Among those present at the rally were Mr. Teddy Taylor, M.P., for Cathcart, Professor Ian Donald of the Queen Mother Hospital, Glasgow, and Mrs. Phyllis Bowman, all of whom showed strong objections to the present abortion act. A film was shown, and illustrated talks then followed. After a short interval, the meeting was declared open to the floor. During this period a good number of interesting questions were both asked and answered.

All pupils were grateful to Miss Lennor who made all the arrangements for travelling and everyone agreed that the rally was both an interesting and beneficial experience.

"SEVENTY-FIVE by ANNE SCULLION

As we all know by now, 1975 has been declared a Holy Year. While most of us are content to celebrate it in the usual way, Mr McFarlane (our principal music teacher) has composed a "hymn" - appropriately titled "Seventy Five" Mr McFarlane told us "One restless night during the Xmas holidays, I had a tune buzzing in my head and of course I couldn't rest until I had it down on paper. After those inspired hours armed with piano, pen and paper, I crawled back to bed at 5.00 a.m."

Returning to school, Mr McF., quite pleased with his humble attempt, decided to enter it for U.N.D.A. - a kind of Holy Year Eurovision Song Contest. And so, aided by Charles Martin (on guitar) and the "San Michelles" (Four experienced backing vocalists), together with the Sunset Sound of the Darlington Hotel, Ayr - the song was recorded.

Its nice to think Mr Mc Farlane will leave us - on a happy note.

Wanted: Young men interested in history and/or archaeology and a summer holiday.

Last year, the Classics department mini-bus tour of Roman (and other) remains in England was a success, both as a sight-seeing tour, and as a holiday. This year, the expedition will be two days longer, and there will be time to visit excavations in progress. Bookings are now being made, and the senior girls going are looking for two or three senior boys to complete the party. Further details from Mr. Dickson.

THIRD TIME LUCKY?

Last Monday, the under-19 Badminton Club played in their second challenge match of the season against Auchenharvie Academy. Although our first challenge match was an overall defeat, we drew 3 matches each in this one and morale is high for the return match in a few weeks. The team was: Moira Bradley, Marade Ballantyne, Julie Forbes, Barbara McGrath, John Valerio, David Anderson, Luigi Macari, Stephen Fraser, and Anthony Da Prato.

Badminton

Last Friday the school was invited to play a return badminton match against Auchenharvie Academy. The team comprising of fifth and sixth years had last played against Auchenharvie last month and the result of this match was a three point all draw. The club which is run by Mrs Dorrian meets every Tuesday and there is unfortunately very little support for it from the senior school.

The team for the match was:

Ladies:	Gents:
Moirra Bradley	John Valerio
Barbara McGrath	John Boothman
Marade Ballantyne	Luigi Macari
Julie Forbes	Anthony Da Prato

The result of what promised to be a closely contested match was not available when SMART went to print but we can assure our readers that the news will be in the next issue of SMART.

FOURTH YEAR SUCCESS

Two of the fourth year girls, Lesley Quinn and Mary Ruxton won certificates in the Latin speaking competition, two weeks ago. They were reading part of a letter sent by the Roman politician, Cicero, to his friend Atticus. Two fifth year pupils also took part in other sections of the competition, but without success.

The second year performed a Latin "Magic Roundabout" scene, with Dougallus, Florentia and others. Although they did much better than a lot of other entries in their section, they did not gain any certificates.

The most interesting part of the outing was discovering how cheap the meals are at the University Union, where a two course meal and a glass of milk cost about 30p.

TUCK SHOP BREAK-IN

A fortnight last Sunday (2nd March), the schools tuck shop was burgled, but thankfully little was stolen. The intruder left a half eaten Milky Way and a packet of Crisps. The Tuck Shop girls were tempted to give the Milky Way to the Police as evidence because the thief had left teeth marks on it. The Police are working on it!

FRENCH CUP FINAL

On Friday 7th March at 12.30 1K and 1S met for the final round of a French vocabulary competition. Finalists were:- Thomas McGinty, Mary McKelvie, Carol Logan all of 1K and Theresa Robertson, Josephine Thompson and Paul Welsh of 1S. In an exciting final 1K came home to the glory beating 1S by two points. The best individual was Thomas McGinty with Theresa Robertson just one point behind him.
- Felicitations à tous!

AUGUST MINI-BUS TRIP

Great news has just come through that the second tour of English Roman remains (completely forgetting Scottish ones) is definitely ON.

Ten senior girls, accompanied by Mr and Mrs Dickson, will be touring around Roman sites of Britain, in our good friend-the mini-bus.

Sites include Bath, Fishbourne Roman palace, York and many other interesting sites. The trip will last 8 days from the 10th to the 17th of August.

The only regret is that no boys answered the advertisement. (Needless to say, the girls are going to enjoy themselves immensely).

Our new Head of Commerce by E. Busby 1V

Mr Mc Dermott has come to St Michael's to replace Mr Dawson as principal teacher of Commerce. Mr Mc Dermott has occupied many posts in several schools, his last post being Assistant Rector in a school in Port Glasgow.

His first impression of the school was that it was a happy school, that impression did not last!! He gets on fine with his colleagues and thinks that the pupils are grand.

Mr Mc Dermott is not the only member of his family who has taught at the school. His wife taught at St Michael's until about five years ago.

We would all like to take this opportunity of welcoming Mr Mc Dermott to the fold and wishing him every happiness in his post.

The person who is overjoyed at his arrival is Mrs Stephen. Since Mr Dawson's departure she has been complaining of overwork but now that Mr Mc Dermott has arrived she can get back to normal.

AYR MUSIC FESTIVAL

This year's festival which took place from Wednesday 12th March to Saturday 21st March, was notable for the success of the sections. The standard of competition was very high and St Michaels can justifiably be proud of her representatives.

The school's victories include:

PERFORMER	SECTION	POSITION
Peter Magee	Senior Piano	1st
Alicia Laughlun	Burns Vocal & Duet	1st
Christine Wilson (Ardrossan Acad)	Senior Duet	1st
Senior Girls Choir	Templeburn Challenge Trophy	1st
Bernadette McLaughlin	Senior Soprano	2nd
Marie Theresa McCann	Mezzo Soprano	2nd=

The Senior Girls Choir also competed in the choir finals on Thursday night of the Festival and were highly praised for their good singing and against good opposition were judged to be the best choir in the Festival.

... .. £ £ £ £ THE CAPITALISER £ £ £ £ £

Over the past several months, the school has been involved in a Stock Market game called "Capitaliser". The object of the game was to end up with as much money as possible by investing £20,000 in buying shares of companies on the stockmarket. At one point the school was doing well and was in third place. Unfortunately the market then went against us and we slipped down into eleventh place. Last Wednesday marked the end of the game and now all we can do is sit back and hope that the £32,073 that we have made is good enough to get us a place in the prize list

Antonine Wall Trip by A Long 1V

On the 20th March, a group of thirteen pupils left St Michael's on a trip to visit and marvel at the wonderous sights of the Roman, now partly non-existent, Antonine Wall. We saw and learned much more than ditches and dykes. Geology, geography, history and greek were but a few of the subjects covered as a result of a lucky collision with the curator of the Hunterian Museum. After seeing all the Roman exhibits of interest, the curator took over. Then after about twenty minutes interesting lecturing about a 20 foot limestone slab with massive, would you believe it, paw prints of a Dinosaur, we made our way quickly to the next stop.

Although the grass was not muddy there were small patches of muck left behind by some prehistoric animal which some people had the misfortune to fall onto with a little gentle persuasion from other members of the male contingent. Much to our disappointment we found that all that was left of many of the forts such as Rough Castle, Castlecary and Croy Hill were markings and at the most 200 yards of turf which was at one time the wall.

We had lunch at Rough Castle and then walked along a stretch of the wall seeing the ditches. We went to New Kilpatrick cemetery, not to rob graves, but to see the wall foundations. The trip was much enjoyed by all and also had great bearing on the Latin "C" Grade syllabus this year.

The team comprised of Ricardo Togneri, Maureen Northcote, Mark Piacentini, James McCourt, Frank Gaddis and John Boothman.

During the last 6 months, the team has invested in companies like Hoest(Chemicals), Bank of N.S. Wales, GKN, W. Mining, Lex (Garaging), National Bank of Australia, Hong-Kong Shanghi Bank, RTZ, Sony, and several others. The companies that really made the money were Bank of N.S. Wales, Hong-Kong Shanghi Bank, National Bank of Australia, and Verco Mining.

"OUT OF ORDER" DON'T IT MAKE YOU THINK! by Fr Boyd

All of us are rather familiar with signs. Signs are part and parcel of our daily living. There are signs everywhere we go, and it is important that we study them and learn their meaning, because they impart a certain amount of knowledge to us. Signs tell us something which might not otherwise be too obvious.

Doctors and nurses in the operating theatre use signs to each other, pointing out what they need. Motorists and pedestrians use signs for safety's sake, and generally speaking we understand them, as they tell us when to go or stop. We have RED as a sign warning us of danger. We also have signs above practically every shop telling us what is on sale. Our Lord was a sign telling us of God's love for us, in much the same way as the gifts we receive from our parents etc. indicate their love for us. Sometimes signs are used to tell people what we think of them!!

The fact that Celtic are eight points or so behind Rangers is a sign that they aren't what they used to be. Usually when we see a RED sky at night, it is an indication that tomorrow will be fine. So we can have all kinds of signs: bright signs, dull signs, good signs and bad signs. The sign I would like you to think about, and the one which is becoming more and more common is "Out of Order". This tells us something to, and falls into the latter category of BAD SIGNS!

Most people simply look at the sign "Out of Order" and think simply of one thing: viz. that the machine they were about to make use of is broken down and is malfunctioning. But is this really true: "Out of Order" does not only tell us this - "Out of Order" does not have to be written in black and white before we can see it. It can take many forms. So have a little think about this and see how S-M-A-R-T you are: see if you can come up with any answers, before I tell you next time what "Out of Order" means to me.

DEBATING COMPETITION

On Tuesday, 4th March in St Michael's Academy, the school represented by Anne Scullion and John Boothman, succeeded in fighting their way into the final of the Scottish Daily Express Debate to be held in Glasgow University Union on Tuesday 8th April. The semi-final was a great success and even though the attendance left much to be desired, the standard of debating did not. Anne and John were speaking for the motion which was "That Britain is ready for a Woman Prime Minister".

They will be joined in the final by Lasswade High, Bonny Rigg who were speaking against the motion. The other schools taking part were Mainholm Academy and Irvine Royal Academy for the motion and Paisley Grammar and Royal High, Edinburgh against the motion.

Last year the school, represented by Brian Kelly and John Boothman, was unfortunately unplaced in the final. The Smart production team wish Anne and John every success in their forthcoming attempt to win debating fame and glory for themselves and the school.

THE WORD GAME

If you are interested in becoming a LEXICONOMANIAC then here is your chance to prove yourself.

The object of the game is to find how many words starting with the letter "P" can be made up from the letters contained in the word "ENCYCLOPAEDIA". Our compiler has already found 35 different words and is working on the rest. There will be a 50p record token awarded to the person whose entry contains the most words. There will also be mystery consolation prizes for the top 10 entries. Please remember to use only words found in an English Dictionary.
